Our time here is short and precious. The hours we have are numbered, but the experiences shared here out-number those hours. We frolic here beneath majestic oaks and tarry past the beautiful pillars of the buildings in which we receive our education. We move hurriedly through this gorgeous, tediously manicured campus, in hopes of a better life once we leave this place. The desire to leave, then, is something we will regret once we close the door on our life at PC. Once we can't turn back, we will fully see its beauty, understand the people we quarreled with and loved, and marvel at the fine men and women we became because of our interactions here. PC will always be home away from home, and a model for what we should achieve in our lives: integrity, a stronger and fuller faith, a heart willing to serve, and a mind-set of love for our fellow human-kind. Our whole life through, we will see our privilege of having spent time here, and we will come to know who we have become in just four short years at Presbyterian College in Clinton, SC. Here we are rooted in love and find ourselves growing in ways we never expected. Here we find ourselves establishing pillars to which we will focus our energy and create our masterpieces. We become as beautiful as the columns and branches toward which we gaze, and when we leave, it will be our heritage to know how grounded we are in our ideals, and how much we have branched out while here.

For generations, all who pass
This testament of trees and grass
Discover here a place to grow:
A composition set to show
A symmetry of green and white,
A medium of shade and light,
An ordered ground, a poem in space
That promises another ease.

Beneath these beams we can partake
Of order that we did not make:
Patterns planted in the ground
In more sober ages found
In trees and buildings we can trace
A past and future for this place.
Between the arching boughs are seen
The columns framed within the green
Columns strong to stand behind
And fortify the seeking mind.

Of old came efforts to invoke
The holy powers of sacred oak.
The Greeks called oaks "The Mothers of Trees"
And rustling of the sacred leaves
Revealed, in answer to a prayer
That Zeus himself was present
Above Dodona's columned temple
To those who would the truth

To father Abraham appeared
The Lord and angels, whom he feared.
But then he heard beneath this oak
Glad news that Sarah brought a joke.
From oak-leaves Rome's women wore a crown
For service rendered to the town.
In columned temples would reward
Her citizens with an accord.

From columned buildings outward springs
Authority, enduring things
That moral principles impart
From just proportions, based on art.
Columns hold beneath a frieze
Churches, juries, symphonies
That speak to us of virtue and
Of honor, hope, and justice done.

The columns stand for order and state
Where no one dreams to hesitate
Of their own position to control
Or hear their part to keep the whole.
Good architecture brings the hope
That unity is still the hope
Of arts and sciences that weave
Coherent patterns we receive.

For us in this fair place are made
Mosaic spots of light and shade
Trees will shelter, columns teach;
Trees will bow and columns teach
Columns vault up to the light;
Oaks bow down to shade from sight.
One seeks earth; the other tries
To find a home among the skies.

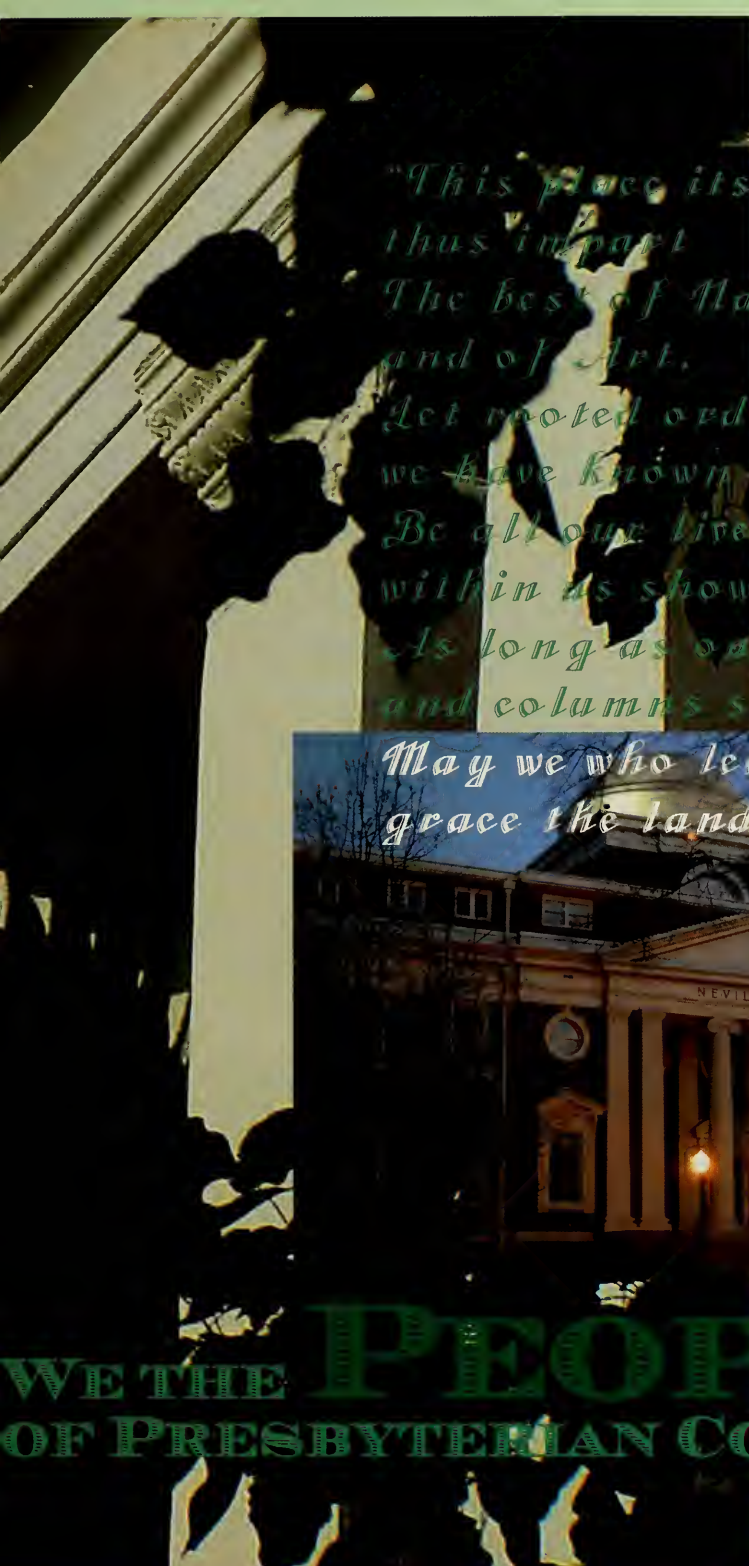

We, among them, seek to find
A sweet concordia of the mind.
For both together teach a line
And, if not in all things.
But, like Arcadia's festive peace,
They both can promise no release
From tensions complex and involved
And problems waiting to be solved.

Both's efforts to escape the dust
Encounter horizontal thrust.
A never-ending tension shows
A lack of permanent repose.

But here, still, stillness - you desire
From every thing that's new and fire
For oaks and columns help to pray
The lessons learned in other ways.

This place itself can thus impart
The best of Nature and of Art.
Let rooted orders we have known
Be all our lives within us shown.
As long as roots and columns stand,
May we who leave them grace the land.

*"This place itself can

*May the road rise

May the wind be ever

Orientation 2001

Welcome to PC!!!

PC wastes no time in welcoming its newest members to campus. Freshmen and transfers fondly remember the flood of welcoming faces and information that greeted them upon their arrival.

From the friendly faces of the orientation leaders (let us not forget their blue socks!) to the famous shaving cream fight in front of GPH, the four-day, fun-filled orientation was, in some opinions, the BEST ever! Higher attendance than in years past meant more bonding and more fun.

Opening Convocation at PC

The Class of 2002 stands as the Honor Council leads faculty and underclassmen in processing in to Opening Convocation.

Dr. Griffith stands with the members of the platform party as the college community prepares to sing the Alma Mater.

The faculty precede the senior class into Opening Convocation, as a sign of their recognition of the seniors' academic accomplishments.

Helen Machida and Tres Dawkins, members of the Honor Council, watch as the freshmen officially become members of the PC community by signing the Honor role.

Queen Susan Roy and her father take the traditional drive around the track.

The theme of 2001 Homecoming was "Where everybody knows your name." SUB sponsored Spirit Week events, giving the student body a chance to show their PC pride. The events of the week included Name-Tag Day, Sidewalk Chalk competition, "Be a Bluehose Day," a bonfire, banner painting, and the traditional gala. The Homecoming nominees were presented at halftime of the football game where Susan Roy was crowned the 2001 Homecoming Queen. It was a fun-filled time for everyone who loves PC. Congratulations on a job well done, SUB.

PC BIDS DEAN NIXON GOODBYE

Joseph O. Nixon, Vice President for Student Life, retires this year after being part of the staff for 36 years. Nixon is a graduate of PC ('62), and it just seems like he couldn't stay away after he graduated. He played football for the Bluehose as an undergraduate, and he returned to PC to coach football. From there, Nixon held a position in the Admissions department, became Dean of Students, and most recently Vice President of Student Life. Though he retires this year, he will not leave PC behind him; he plans to stay in Clinton, travel some, and play a lot of golf. He and Mrs. Nixon will still have a presence on campus as they attend games, concerts, and events.

Sheila Hill, Associate Dean of Students, and Mrs. Deloria Burris, Secretary of Greek and Residence Life, have worked with Dean Nixon for years. They both assert Nixon's love of PC.

"He has a tough job. He bends over backwards for students," said Hill, "and when someone leaves school for something they have done, it was always after (Nixon) gave two or three chances. His decisions are not always well-received, but he made the best decisions for PC."

Glory Days of Bailey Stadium

PC also bids goodbye to Bailey Stadium this year. Dedicated at the opening home game of the 1928 season, the stadium has since witnessed 73 years of Bluehose football. Home to annual festivities like Homecoming and the Bronze Derby, the college community will miss this milestone of PC history. However, as the spirited student body has quickly outgrown the 3,000 seat facility, PC looks forward to the first game of the 2002 season, to be played in a brand new stadium which will also bear the Bailey name.

PC has beauty where you'd least expect it. Take, for instance, the beauty of the flowers beside Richardson, the rising red and blue balloons at PC games, the ducks by Lake Orr, our myriad of trees, and the grandeur of our buildings' lighting fixtures, such as in Neville. They may not be the first thing you remember when looking back on your years at PC, but when you come back, these things will stand out to you far more than they did when you traversed among them.

CHRISTMAS TIME AT PC

Celebrating Christmas at PC is always a remarkable time in the PC experience. Highlights of this time include the yearly Christmas program put on by the PC Choir, PC Players, and PC Music Ensembles. This year's program, "Heavenly Light" was performed twice, due to popular demand by the PC Community. "Heavenly Light" incorporated dance choreographed by the new Theatre professor, Miriam Ragland, for the first time in its three-year history. Thank you to Dr. Porter Stokes, Lesley Preston, and Miriam Ragland for your collaborative orchestration.

Also the Lessons and Carols Service, always put on by the Chaplain's office and led by members of PC's religious organizations, is a special way to celebrate Christmas with members of the PC family. Dr. and Mrs. Griffith welcomed one guest to their house immediately after the service.

CRUNCH TIME!!!!

OK, I can't go past a point where I can't argue for 5 exams for writing that Chinese character in less than two weeks. And you still have to get Unimons' card, have a report card written and stop for lunch. Not knowing that school has to cancel it. This is the time of year, in freshman age, about 5,000, two and four about ten pounds, and the three or four weeks to finish in our sleep level degrees.

Studying by yourself - even though it can be very tempting to study with others! - is always the most effective way to learn the material

Checking email while studying in H-P is always a great distraction!

Homeward Bound

Remember the first time you called PC "home"? Maybe it slipped out in a conversation with your parents when it was time to come back after a weekend. Or maybe it was while dragging your roommate out of Walmart after spending an hour there. Or maybe it was the nagging feeling during fall break of your freshman year that you missed the sandwich line in GPF1 or the bright smiles of the housekeeping staff or even that 8:00 class. Whatever it was, you remember the initial feeling of disbelief quickly followed by a wonderful feeling of reassurance that, yes, you had made the right decision in making this place "home" for the next four years. And so on your return trip back to campus, you looked at that sign for Clinton with a new found affection. As you neared your exit, you experienced an anticipation that had more to do with the atmosphere of this place than finally making it to a restroom. And you joined with your fellow students from north, south, east, and west on the trip home, as you realized how glad you were that...

And then there comes a time to leave this newfound home. Be it for a weekend away, a trip to Greenwood for Chic-fil-a, or to another part of the world to experience life post-graduation, you pass these familiar signs of PC. The roads to choose are many. They lead in different directions, and we do not always travel them together. But we rest assured in the knowledge that they share this one common source, which we will always call home.

College's Company

With 1,186 students this year, a record on-campus enrollment for PC, administrators had to overcome the challenge of finding a home for all these students. The solution: three to a room. Many freshmen and transfers on 4th floor Georgia and 3rd floor Smyth found themselves crunched for space with an extra bed and desk in their room. Most toughed it out for one semester (or less) and moved to "greener pastures" where they now have the luxury of a whole half-room to themselves. Administrators hope that the opening of the new Senior Hall will prevent this problem from occurring next year.

Elissa Kinison shows off her door with, not two but, three name plates.

To make their room as spacious as possible, Blake Lichty and Ashby Simmons, make a loft out of one of the beds.

snappy cas' (sna-pe 'kazh) adj.

1: stylish, smart, and informal  2: of or relating to the typical style of dress at Presbyterian College social events

One of the first things you learn when you walk on the PC campus is PC's "dress code," snappy casual. From button-down shirts to ironed khakis, snappy cas' is represented at many of PC's social events. No one is sure how this tradition started but we are sure snappy cas' will remain part of the life-style at PC for years to come.

Student Workers

Opportunities for student workers abound at PC. Where else could you go to classes and work for a few dollars? Springs workers get to socialize and work on homework, all the while keeping order in Springs. Admin offers many opportunities for students to work, such as in Admissions, in the mail room, and other areas. In academic departments students can serve as assistants to help professors by doing small tasks.

One important part of becoming a PC student is learning the PC lingo. Saying "Let's eat at Greenville Dining Hall," or "I'm going to study in Harrington-Peachtree Academic Center," will get you a strange look and perhaps a giggle. PC students are always on the go and, for that reason, have developed a simple and short way to refer to some of the more "wordy" sites and organizations on campus. These are just a few from the vast pool of PC lingo:

Jackie Turner calls in a report

Public Safety keeps PC safe from harm and works to educate all on where it is legal to park. Recently, Public Safety has been taking on more active roles with the student body. Jackie Turner, Crime Prevention Officer and Victim Advocate, has been getting things moving to teach self-defense classes at PC. Thank you, to all the Public Safety officers, for helping unlock cars, securing dorm doors, and letting us out of really big tickets at Times!

It's nice to know that when something is broken, Maintenance will come fix it. These men work long hours and in all kinds of weather handling all the lawn care and building complaints at FC. The campus would not be so beautiful if it weren't for their hard work and commitment. We will always remember them for driving all over campus in their green work carts, cutting the lawns, replacing light bulbs, fixing broken windows, and most of all, their smiles!

House Keeping

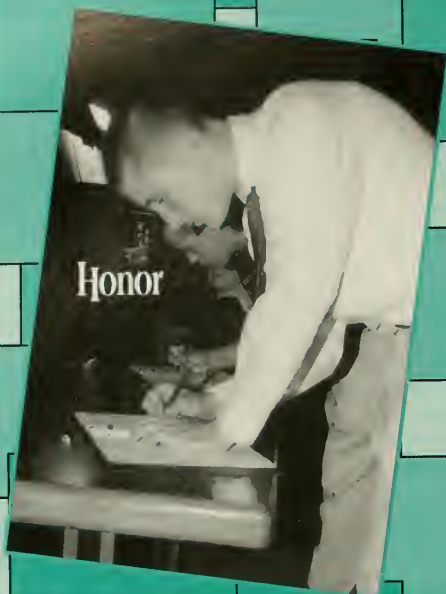

The Housekeeping Staff at FC is first rate. They clean FC from top to bottom every week, and always do a wonderful job at it! Without them, FC would be overrun with lots of dust and garbage. The cleaning staff is definitely a part of the FC family - they talk to the students and even eat in GDH with us. Thank you for putting up with our meeees and for your dedication to the college.

PC: What makes it so Great?

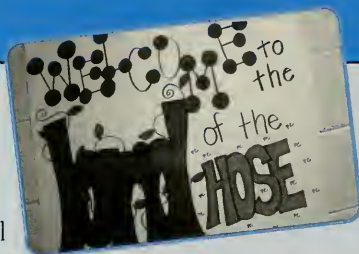

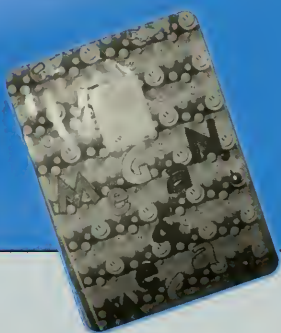

Presbyterian College is a unique school with characteristics that distinguish the college from any other. Not only are we a community within the school, but we also share a common bond with the Clinton community surrounding us. Unlike many schools, PC is different from the rest first of all because of our Honor Code. As each student knows, when we enter into our freshman year here at PC, we all have to sign the Honor Code, acknowledging that we each understand the responsibilities we have as students on this campus. While some people love PC because of the sports, heritage, and/or scenery, others enjoy being able to go out into the surrounding community and be recognized and supported for our attendance here at PC. We are very lucky to have the daily encouragement and support of our surrounding community.

Dorm Life:

Family

Late nights...long talks...and not much studying...that's what PC dorm life is all about. As students, we are each unique, but we all make a Family. Because of the small school atmosphere, PC students are able to enjoy a strong sense of community through the majority of students living on campus. Living in a dorm room allows students the ability to bond with others and form lasting relationships. In each dorm room, we have been privileged to have access to the internet 24/7. It is helpful for us when we have projects due, when we want to check our email, or if we just want to IM our suitemate or a person down the hall to see if they are ready to go eat. Also, each person's individuality is expressed through their decorations on their door and especially in their rooms. In addition, because of the home and Family atmosphere, students are able to walk through the hall of the dorm, and there is always an open door. Sometimes, as seen through the pictures, on nice weather days, students even go outside on the lawn and study or talk.

Who are the people working behind the scenes for Presbyterian College? Well, here they are: the secretaries and administrative assistants. What would we do without them? Have you stopped to tell them how much you appreciate them for all of their hard work? Well, you should. These hard-working and unique individuals help preserve our school's motto, "Dum Vivimus Servimus." Each of these beautiful workers are there with smiling faces and a cheerful voice to help students, faculty, and staff with their daily needs. Without our "special people," it would be hard for PC to keep everything organized and rolling. They are a vital part to our community. So next time you pass by one of these people, make sure you stop and thank them for all of their dedication and hard work for you and the school.

Editor's note: please forgive the Pac Sac if we have inadvertently left anyone out of this list.

PC's Special Ladies

Ann Martin

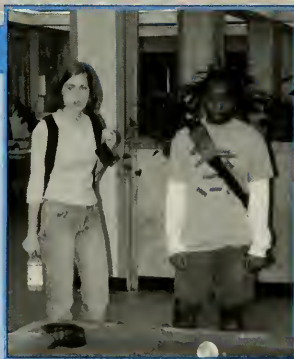

Ann Martin retires this year as the Administrative Assistant of Academic Affairs. Working closely with the Dean of Academic Affairs, Dr. Dave Gillespie, and Dr. William Moncrief before that, Mrs. Martin has become a walking Grand Central Station for PC. She always knows what is going on at PC, where to send students for answers, and the dates events take place. Her office, always decorated with fresh-cut flowers from her yard, is a welcome haven for all students who come to see her for any purpose. Mrs. Martin retires in September, and she will be dearly missed in Admin. Thankfully, she will still be in Clinton, and PC will surely contact her for all sorts of information that only she would know. Thank you, Mrs. Martin, for your many contributions to PC. It wouldn't have been the same without you.

Springs Campus Center

Because it offers students, faculty, and visitors a wide variety of things to do, our Springs Campus Center is one of the most well-known social places on campus. Students at PC can enjoy playing pool, eating, visiting our bookstore, using the gym, swimming, using the weight room, or joining in the aerobics classes. Also, not only are students given easy access to their mailboxes daily, but they are also able to visit several organizations' offices, like SGA and the Judicial Council.

Greenville Dining Hall is not just PC's eating facility, but it is also, one of the most popular places to go and socialize. Usually, the intention of the students is to run in GDH, grab something to eat, and go back to studying. However, the fact is, trips to the dining hall, more often than not, end up a one to two hour study break. The wonderful staff at PC provide students, faculty, and visitors a well organized and varied selection of food. On some days of the month, the staff even changes up things and plans unique theme nights for GDH, like Blues Night and Beach Bash. Another favorite and a long standing tradition here at PC are the Blue Ladies.

October 11, 2001

On October 11, 2001, Presbyterian College had the privilege of being honored by the Newcomen Society at a dinner at the Poinsett Club in Greenville, South Carolina. Founded in New York City in 1923, the Newcomen Society recognizes business with great achievement and service to their country. As seen in the bottom left hand corner, the first individuals to be awarded the Medallion were Irwin Belk and The Bailey Foundation. During the dinner, some of Presbyterian College's students were able to perform in front of the members. President Griffith, along with other PC staff, were able to attend this dinner and accept this honoring award.

Blue Line

Chap Day, one of the many drivers of Scot's Blue Line, states, "Scot's Blue Line is around to help those who wish to go to and from Fraternity Court safely. We provide a service to help those who find it safer to ride than walk alone, those who have partied and are acting responsible, and others who came in a vehicle with people who are not being responsible." Currently, Chap and other drivers are trying to make the Blue Line a separate organization. Other drivers during the year are Jill Walker, Audra Aliberti, Wylie Shugart, Caleb Bryant, Kevin Coffey, and Gabriel Murray.

New Building

Since day one, Presbyterian

College has been making additions and subtractions to its campus only to make it better for the students. The year 2001-2002 marks the year we say good-bye to the Bailey Stadium and hello to our new Senior Hall. This facility is going to offer apartment-like rooms, and it is planned to be co-ed. Because of our growing student body, this building was needed, and we thank the donors who made the building possible. Also, much thanks to the hard workers we saw out there everyday.

STUDY ABROAD

At Presbyterian College,

we have wonderful opportunities in which students are able to travel all around the world to study abroad. It is a privilege and joy to be one of the few from PC to see the world, meet new people, and learn different cultures. This year, students from PC were traveled to Spain, France, Finland, Scotland, and Colorado.

While sightseeing, Allen took a picture of St. Andrew's Castle in Scotland.

Allen Buzco states, "It was a busy country, but it was a different busy. It was an escapable busy. It was easier to get away from the hustle when you felt like it was getting too much. St. Andrews is a small town, a fishing village with a university and a golf course. So, if classes and the stress got too high, then I could walk two blocks down the street, and I was alone on the beach watching the seagulls fishing. If I became bored, then the pub or a friend's flat was never more than a block or two away."

St. Regulus Hall, the residence hall where Allen stayed.

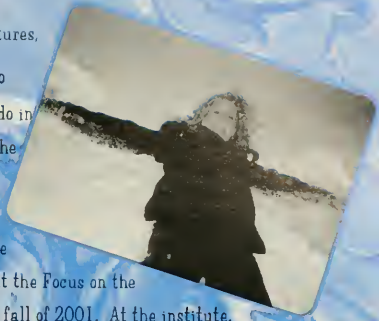

As seen above, Andrew Raynal is with his hostess that he stayed with while he was in Spain. He states, "My study abroad experience to Seville, Spain was amazing. Living within another culture has given me more of an open mind and allowed me to learn and experience new ideas and people. I would say that my favorite part of my experience was meeting all of the people and traveling through Europe. There isn't much that I would not change about my experience, but I would've liked to take classes with Spanish students and not North American students. However, I became very good friends with a lot of them."

As seen in these two pictures,

Meri Wood went to Colorado Springs, Colorado in order to study abroad. She states, 'I was chosen along with 87 other students from around the United States to study at the Focus on the Family Institute for the fall of 2001. At the institute, I took four classes, and I had an internship with Fellowship of Christian Athletes. The classes I took were Religious Worldviews, Family Church and Society, Family Life Studies, and Marriage and Leadership. I learned many amazing things at the institute, but I feel that the most important thing I learned at the institute was understanding and desiring to truly obey God's Great Commission for our lives to 'Go and make disciples of all the nations' (Matthew 28:18). I would encourage every student to look into studying abroad while attending PC, and I would encourage everyone to go out into the nations making disciples for Jesus Christ.'

Kristen Chandler and Bonnie

Glymph both had the privilege of studying abroad in Finland for the fall semester in 2001. Kristen states, 'I learned so much about people, life, and myself. Living on a hall with 11 other international students from all over Europe was so interesting, especially as we were able to share ideas, debate, and hang out.

I traveled in Finland, Estonia, Russia,

John Catoe went to France to study abroad, and he states, 'Two events played major roles in my life changing study abroad experience in France: being a senior and September 11th. It was like a loss of innocence and a last goodbye. However, I witnessed the incredible support and love of the European community, especially in France. Everywhere I traveled, I felt like family. My memories, experiences, and lessons will stay with me. I decided to go my senior year because that was the only time I had an opportunity to go. Study abroad is such a valuable experience. Anytime you can go is worth it - it's never too late.'

and Sweden. The places that I visited were beautiful. Traveling was an experience in and of itself, opening my eyes to new and beautiful sights that I had never seen before and may never be able to see again. The most enjoyable part of the trip was definitely the people. I love the people! The late night and early morning conversations are those that I will never forget.'

Christian Life

Being supported by the Presbyterian USA Church, PC is steeped in opportunities for students to practice their Christianity on campus as well as to strengthen their faith. Not only does PC offer a variety of Christian organizations, but campus life also provides chances for small Bible Studies and weekend retreats. Almost any night of the week a student can find a Bible study or a religious meeting occurring somewhere on campus. With the availability of the new Campus Ministry Coordinators provided by the Chaplain's office, Christian life has found its way into dorm life. CMCs, students chosen through an application process, are available in each dorm to help each student find his or her place in PC's diverse religious life.

Christian life at PC extends beyond the academic year. These students spent several weeks of their summer in New Mexico on a Celtic Cross mission trip. Numerous students explore various regions of the world during holidays and summer breaks in order to evangelize and to serve those in need.

Students who are active in leadership roles often spend portions of their summers preparing for the upcoming year. Neely Stansell represents Celtic Cross at a General Assembly meeting.

"Then Jesus said came to them and said, 'All authority in heaven and earth has been given to me. Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, and teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you.'"

--Matthew 28:19-20

The Chaplain's office sponsors a variety of events during the year that are geared towards strengthening students' faith. One of the most popular events is winter conference. Ashley Rogillio, Susan Freeman, and Rachel Jernigan take advantage of the festivities offered at Winter Conference.

These students have just added another dimension to their religious experience, as they have just joined Celtic Cross. Celtic Cross is open to members of the Presbyterian Church through an application process and provides opportunities for students to serve each other and their fellow students.

FCA

Fellowship of Christian Athletes

During the year, FCA plans two retreats: one in the fall and another in the spring. Jill Badger, Nicky Stogner, Tara Sluder, Elizabeth Ogorek, Cyndi Coker, Julie Merrill, and Abbey Wrenn take advantage of a break offered between sessions to take a hike in the scenic outdoors.

Before coming back to PC, the FCA officers spend a weekend together to strengthen their leadership abilities. Abbey Wrenn, Sherri Sullivan, and Dorothy Taylor are forced to work together to solve a dilemma in one of the many dynamic activities of the weekend.

One of the largest and most active Christian organizations on campus, FCA is a welcoming and enthusiastic bunch of PC Students bent on praising God and serving as Jesus' disciples in all they do. With weekly meetings every Wednesday at 9, FCA keeps PC in touch and in tune with fellow student's beliefs, thoughts, and talents. Signs around campus announce a multitude of events going on in FCA, and their many retreats signal a group of friends who carry the word off campus as well. Officers this year are Matt Wiggins, Abbey Wrenn, Sherri Sullivan, Dorothy Taylor, Leigh McManus, Jack Carmody, Josh Terrel, Katie Lenhart, Dave Latham, Mark Dudley.

FCA offers students the opportunity to form friendships. These FCA members enjoy fellowshiping over dinner at the local Gooneybirds.

“Do not let anyone look down on you because you are young, but set an example for the believers in speech, life, in love, in faith, and in purity.” -- 1 Timothy 4:12

One of the biggest highlights of FCA is the praise band. The praise band, consisting of Leah Buchanan, Brent Kaneft, and Dave Latham, leads praise and worship every Wednesday night.

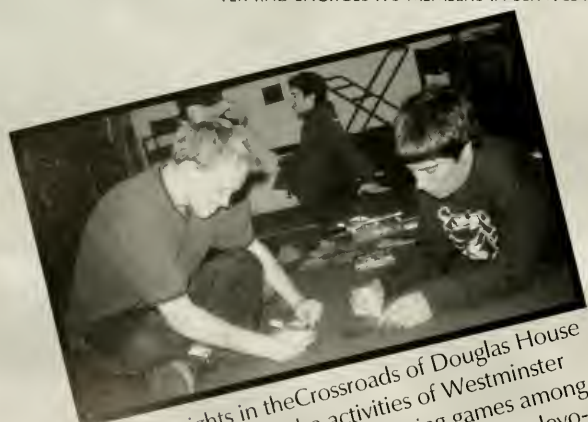

WF members spent a refreshing weekend in North Carolina on the fall retreat. Weekend activities included fun and games, devotions, hiking, and service projects. WF allows students with the same beliefs to fellowship and form lasting friendships. Although WF is sponsored by the PC USA church, it is open to all students.

Westminster Fellowship...

EVERY MONDAY NIGHT AT 7:45 P.M. A GROUP OF STUDENTS MEETS TOGETHER IN CROSSROADS FOR SKITS, MUSIC, FELLOWSHIP AND MORE. EACH WEEK OFFERS STUDENTS NEW AND EXCITING WAYS TO DEVELOP AND TO PLUNGE DEEPER IN THEIR FAITH. WF, SPONSORED BY THE PC (USA) CHURCH, PLANS VARIOUS RETREATS DURING THE SEMESTER AND ENGAGES ITS MEMBERS IN SERVICE PROJECTS THROUGHOUT THE YEAR.

Monday nights in the Crossroads of Douglas House are hopping with the activities of Westminster Fellowship. Students enjoy playing games among other activities such as singing and having devotions.

There is never a dull moment in WF meetings. Neely Stansell and Dave Simpson keep everyone entertained by showing off their dancing moves.

"May the Lord bless you and keep you. May the Lord make his face to shine upon you. May the Lord lift up his countenance upon you, and give you peace. Amen"

At their first year at PC, Lois and Bill Anderson have become very active in campus life as they serve as our missionaries in residence.

During their weekly meetings, WF members enjoy devotion time. Neely Stansel, WF moderator, leads a devotion on sharing our gifts with others.

Presbyterian Church Seal

Lois and Bill Anderson, Missionaries in Residence

This dynamic duo has brought many wonderful gifts to PC this year. Lois and Bill have very different backgrounds, but their union in marriage has led them to a life in serving Christ's church overseas.

Bill is originally from a town called Assuit, near Alexandria, Egypt. He decided to become a third-generation missionary in his family upon accepting the Lord between his 10th and 11th grade years of high school. He went to college in Ohio, and then went on to Seminary at Pittsburgh Theological Seminary. He was called to do pastoral counseling and youth work in a congregation in Beaver, Pennsylvania, where he met Lois. Lois had gone to school at Geneva College, also in Pennsylvania. As Lois jokingly put it, "If you get involved with someone in the congregation, you better get out of town!"

The couple married on June 9, 1951. They were assigned to the mission field and went to Oklahoma to study linguistics in order to prepare for overseas mission. By September of that same year, the two were studying Arabic in Cairo Egypt. They went to South Sudan to a town on the White Nile, where they taught junior high for 2 years.

In 1955 they began a 5-year stint teaching in Bishop Gwynne Theological College, a theological seminary in southern Sudan. They were expelled by the Muslim-run government and they went to Kenya as a partners of the Presbyterian Church of Scotland. There they spent time at St. Paul's United Theological College, working with different churches in Nairobi, Kenya. They stayed 12 years there until the civil war in Sudan, which had been the reason of their expulsion, was over. The couple returned to Sudan, and saw a war-ravaged land. Despite the destruction, the church in that area had grown in during the civil war, and now the large group needed its leaders to be trained theologically. Lois and Bill built a Bible school and trained volunteer evangelists. During this time, Bill, wanting to record the events of the church in that part of the world, wrote his first book, The Church in East Africa, 1840-1974. They worked with five tribes during the next 10 years, teaching them to know the Bible in depth.

War broke out again in 1983, so the couple moved to Khartoum, Sudan, which is in the Sahara Desert. There they undertook the challenge of reviving a Bible school and church, training leaders, and all the while doing this in Arabic, which the couple hadn't used since 1951. In 1991 they left the Bible school and organized the Nile Theological College, also in Khartoum. They stayed in Khartoum until the year 2000.

Lois and Bill had children while they were serving as missionaries. They take great pride in having four different children (two daughters and two sons) born in four different countries: Egypt, Uganda, Sudan, and Kenya.

In June, 2000, Bill wrote his most recent book, Day of Devastation, Day of Contentment. The couple retired in mid-2000 and have been spending time with presbyteries in Pennsylvania and South Carolina. They found out about the missionary-in-residence position through a pastor in Columbia. They applied through the chaplain's office, and have been with us all year!

While serving at PC, the couple has taken an active role in the life of campus activities and academics. They have been frequent participants of Westminster Fellowship. Lois and Bill also taught a class each semester - Old Testament in the fall, an International Mission in the spring.

The couple celebrates their 50th wedding anniversary this June. The festivities will take place in Ohio, and people will literally come from all over the world to see them: Morocco, Pakistan, Rome, Uganda, Oman, an even Mississippi. Next year, they plan to stay in Clinton (guess the town grew on them!). Bill has been invited to go back to Kenya to revise Day of Devastation into a smaller version to be translated to Arabic.

Thank you, Lois and Bill, for your wonderful life of service and commitment to Christ, that we might be inspired by the examples you have set.

Let's energize!

Essie Buxton, James Stetson, and Powers Strickland are all smiles while engaging fully in an energizer on a Celtic Cross retreat.

CELTIC CROSS

Celtic Cross is a leadership program sponsored by the Presbyterian Church through First Presbyterian Church, Spartanburg. Dr.

Bob Smith leads this wonderful program which prepares PC (USA) Students for work in the church. The group attends 2 yearly workshops, in which leaders from different denominations come and speak on different ways of leading worship and issues that are facing the church today. While all the students in the group are not expected to go into ministry, they join the group out of an interest to learn effective skills in all sorts of ministry. The group is subdivided into smaller groups which have partnerships with area churches, and they work with the congregations of the churches in many capacities such as worship, recreation, and others. This summer, members of Celtic Cross are traveling to Scotland to learn about the historical roots of the Presbyterian Church.

After a long day of sessions and activities on a Celtic Cross retreat, Emily Hutto, Leigh McManus, and Allison Bedford have no trouble falling asleep

In addition to providing its members with the opportunity to get closer to one another, Celtic Cross also allows students to form close relationships with members of the faculty. Chris and Stacy Sarkowski, Katie Rogers, Mary Margaret Fouse, and Neely Stansell enjoy dinner at Dr. Bob Smith's home.

"Then we will no longer be infants, tossed back and forth by the waves, and blown here and there by every wind of teaching and by the cunning and craftiness of men in their deceitful scheming. Instead, speaking the truth in love, we will in all things grow up into him who is the Head, that is, Christ. From him the whole body, joined and held together by every supporting ligament, grows and builds itself up in love, as each part does its work."

-- Ephesians 4:14-16

"But we have this treasure in jars of clay to show that this all-surpassing power is from God and not from us. We are hard pressed on every side, but not crushed; perplexed, but not in despair; persecuted, but not abandoned, struck down, but not destroyed."

-- 2 Corinthians 4:7-9

Winter Conference is held every January in Montreat, North Carolina

Each year the Chaplain's office sponsors Winter Conference, which is open to all students. Winter Conference this year was a weekend retreat consisting of challenging messages, uplifting fellowship, and awesome music performed by David Lamotte. In addition to the strengthening of faith, Winter Conference also provides a break from the hectic PC schedule and allows students to be refreshed by the beauty and serenity of Montreat, North Carolina.

Perhaps the biggest attraction of Winter Conference is the talented David Lamotte. Each year Lamotte blesses the Winter Conference attendants with his folk music

Bible Studies...

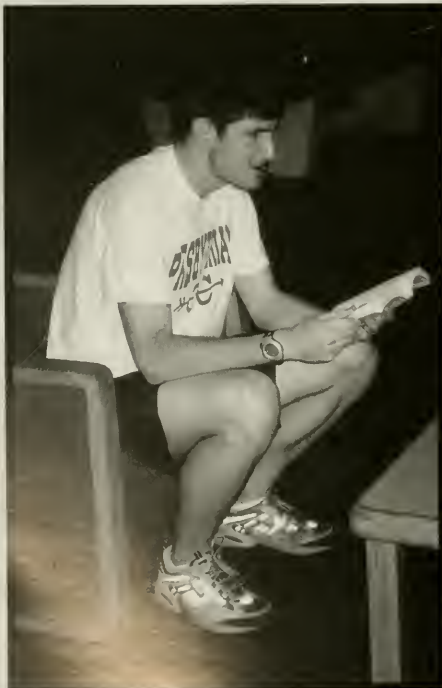

Every Monday night, Dr. Hobbie leads a small group discussion on a diverse issues. Dr. Hobbie and the various students that attend search to see how the Bible applies to current society.

"aLL Scripture is God-BREATHed and is useful
for teaching,
REBUKING,
CORRECTING and training in righteousness,
so that the man
of God may be thoroughly equipped for every good work."

2 timothy 3:16

Each FCA officer lead a focused Bible study during the week. FCA provided freshman Bible studies as well as studies that focused on the Psalms, the book of Esther, or on servanthood. Jack Carmody leads a Bible study for freshman males.

Students look up to Dr. Hobbie for his wisdom and Biblical insight. Erin Beers and Kelly Wesseling listen intently during one of Dr. Hobbie's Bible studies, which are held in the bean bag room in HP.

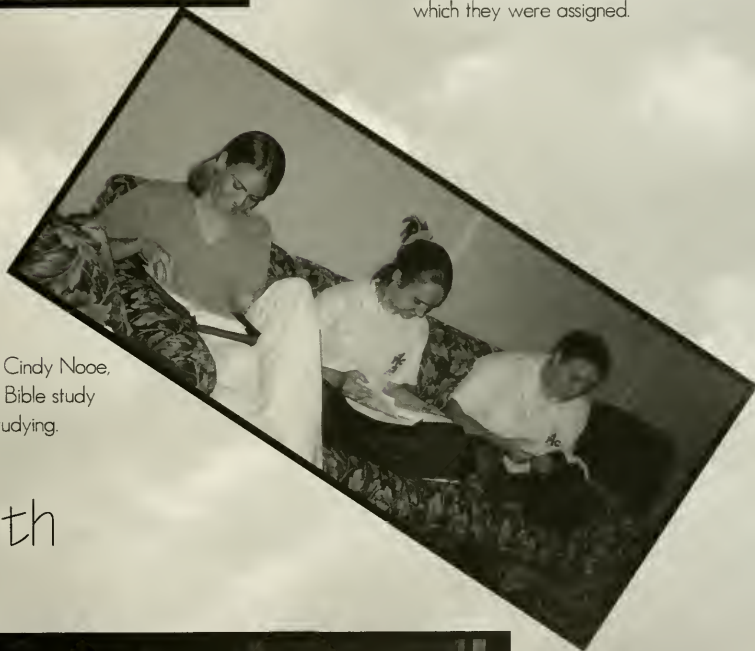

There are numerous Bible studies offered on campus. These freshman girls simply have to walk into the dorm lobby to plunge deeper into God's word.

The new Campus Ministry Coordinators, including Erin Beers, Rachel Dasher, Robert Kurts, and Doodle Harris, lead Bible studies in the dorms to which they were assigned.

Bible studies also provide a time to relax with friends. Cindy Nooe, Rebecca Long, and Shannon Innes enjoy their weekly Bible study time as a time to catch up and have fun while studying.

Small group Growth

These freshman guys kick back every Thursday night in the lobby of Bailey Dorm. During the year, they study topics such as discipleship, leadership, and evangelism.

This was the first year that the Chaplain's office sponsored the Labyrinth. For three days, the Labyrinth was set up in Yonce and open to any student who wanted to walk the path in a time of prayer and meditation.

during Holy Week.

Monday, March 24 from 5-8 pm
Tuesday, March 26 from 5-8 pm
Wednesday, March 27 from 8-10 pm

Sponsored by F.A.C.

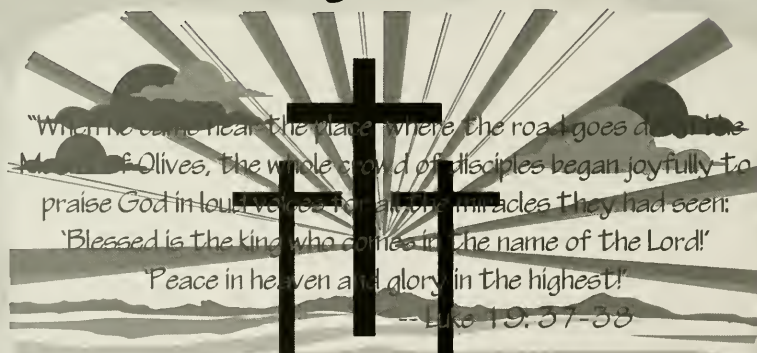

The Labyrinth consists of a pathway surrounded by candlelight. In addition to candlelight, music also serves to set the mood for prayer and meditation. Rachel Dasher, a CMC in Grotnes dorm, helps set up the Labyrinth by lighting candles.

The Passion Play has become a tradition on campus and in the Clinton community. The FCA evangelism team is responsible for the production, which is a moving drama. Brandon Frick and Ben Creaseman are the Roman guards arresting Jesus, played by Jack Carmody.

Holy Week

The PC community celebrates the week leading up to Easter in a variety of ways. The importance of Holy Week is not overlooked on campus, and students are anxious to take breaks from their studying in order to celebrate the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus Christ. Each year the music department works dilligently to prepare for the Holy Week concert. In addition to the concert, other groups on campus sponsor such activities such as the Labyrinth, the Passion Play, and Bible Studies. Whatever the student's taste, he is sure to find a Holy Week activity to enjoy.

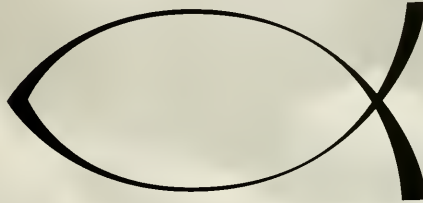

PC 1

"The body is a unit, though it is made up of many parts; and though all its parts are many, they form one body. So it is with Christ. For we were all baptized by one spirit into one body --whether Jews or Greeks, slave or free -- and we are all given the one Spirit to drink." -- 1 Corinthians 12:12-13

To start things off each night at PC 1, the FCA praise band led the attendants in worship.

In order to set the mood for the night, Emilie Butler and Dave Latham lead the music at PC 1 gatherings. The songs encouraged the students who were present to reflect upon the purpose of PC 1.

For the third year in a row, the various Christian organizations on campus came together as one entity in the body of Christ. PC 1, which occurs during the second week of February, was started when two students took the initiative to solidify the bonds between religious organizations. During the week of PC 1, all of the organizations cancel their regular weekly meetings so that their members can all meet together in Springs Campus Center for praise and worship, skits, fellowship, and guest speakers. The week of PC 1 is a week that students anticipate.

"Make every effort to keep the unity of the Spirit through the bond of peace. There is one body and one Spirit -- Just as you were called to one hope when you were called -- one Lord, one faith, one baptism; one God and Father of all and through all and in all."

--Ephesian 4:3-6

SGA is the group of students who are elected by their peers to represent the entire Student Body. SGA is responsible for events like Freshman Orientation, class events, and other random exciting activities.

SGA members are preparing for the Freshman class to have their first Students only meeting.

One of the most exciting and fun packed five day experience is FRESHMAN ORIENTATION. SGA is given the task to plan and coordinate activities for students. Above is Sophomore Class President Travis Fitzwater looking on as others dance at the Luau. These enthusiastic cheerleaders help teach the new "Hose" PC's fight song.

This is one of the many signs that was seen all over campus on the first days back at PC. SGA worked very hard to make sure that everyone felt welcome upon returning to PC.

Wilderness Activities Program

SPELUNKING

The Wilderness Activity Program, aka WAP, had an extremely active year. WAP, sponsored by David Besuden, increased its membership and participation dramatically by offering more events throughout the year. The group participated in cave spelunking, sky diving, hosting a bike clinic, mountain biking, and camping in the mountains. WAP allows members and nonmembers alike to join in these great outdoor activities, which foster physical growth and close friendships. Senior Janice Preston, who went sky diving, said, "It was amazing. You would not believe how happy I am that I went!" Members hold sign ups for the activities in Springs, so they are focused on getting the school involved, connected, and active. Its members would agree, it is a great outlet for all the stress college can hand you!

The Visual Arts

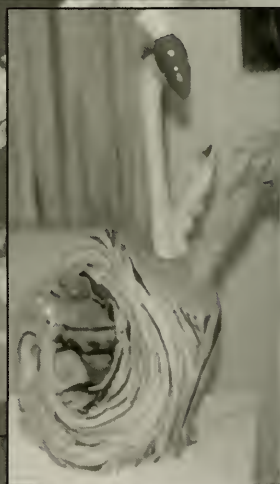

Opportunities abound here at PC for creative outlets. In the visual arts department, students can take part in lots of classes to express themselves visually, such as basic drawing, painting, ceramics, photography, and 2-D. Working closely with great faculty artists such as Ralph Paquin, Mark Anderson, and Ann Stoddard, students walk away from PC seeing the world with new eyes.

Choir

The 2001-2002 PC Choir had much to accomplish: learn dozens of songs, plan and rehearse for many concerts, prepare for tour, and strengthen the quality of the PC choir. After much hard work, their success is evident. The Choir gave numerous performances on and off campus this year, and their spring tour through South Carolina and Georgia left a stamp on the state of how a fine choral group sounds and looks. The third annual Christmas Concert, this year called "Heavenly Light," received droves of praise for PC Choir. This group boasts great talent and diversity. Good Luck next year!

Members of the choir, happy to be off the bus, kid around as they await yet another rehearsal for one of their performances over Spring Tour.

The Chamber Choir, a small division of PC Choir, performs in the Christmas Chapel Service.

Greeks!!! 2001-2002

Anne Sullivan, President of Panhellenic Council

The Panhellenic Council of PC has seen many exciting changes and improvements over the last year. 2001 began with a visit from NPC delegates to help sort out PC's Panhellenic's strengths and weaknesses. Once found, the Panhellenic Council went hard to work to improve the system. In April 2001, along with IFC, Panhellenic sponsored a very successful Greek Week. That same month, Panhellenic worked hard to bring "Week of the Scholar" to the campus. This event included rewarding those Greek women who were academically successful the past semester and honoring PC's faculty and staff for all of their work. The Panhellenic Executive Council was hard at work over the summer to ensure a successful recruitment that following October. Summer 2001 also brought Mr. Marc Shook to PC as Director of Greek Life. Shook proved to be an invaluable resource to Panhellenic and IFC alike. Fall 2001 began with the annual favorite "Party at the Pond", where sorority women get together to share food and fellowship. October saw the most successful sorority recruitment in the history of sororities at PC. Panhellenic grew leaps and bounds this past year, and promises when you're King of the Jungle

They say that college is the best four years of your life, but none of us would have such a meaningful college experience if it were not for Alpha Delta Pi. Our sorority seeks to uphold the high ideals symbolized through our four diamond points of scholarship, service, Christian womanhood, and loyalty.

We have participated in various activities throughout the year to show that we exemplify our diamond points whole-heartedly and encourage each sister to develop into her full potential. This year we have raised close to $4000 for our national philanthropy, the Ronald McDonald House; our sisters have the highest average GPA of any other Greek organization on campus; sisters attend our weekly Bible Study; and we have participated in a variety of service programs throughout the community such as SVS service day, hosting seasonal parties for children at Thornwell, serving as big sisters for Thornwell students, and volunteering for Special Olympics and Relay for Life. At this year's Greek Awards Ceremony, we were honored to receive both the Scholarship Cup and Community Service Cup—not to mention the Intramural award for campus involvement (we are flag football and indoor soccer IM champions and alumni involvement).

When we are not studying or participating in service projects, our sisters like to have fun! We host a semi-formal at Christmas time, and our Black Diamond formal at the end of the year. Other parties include Harvest Party and Arrest Party, and additional social gatherings with campus fraternities.

Together we have laughed until our sides hurt, cried until we thought we could cry no more, and shared the very depths of our souls with each other. We have learned the true meaning of sisterhood, enjoyed a well-rounded college experience, and shared moments that we wish would never end. Alpha Delta Pi is a way of life.

Alpha Sigma Phi

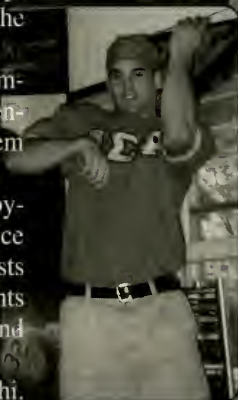

Alpha Sigma Phi was founded at Yale University in 1845. The Alpha Psi chapter was established on May 12, 1978 at Presbyterian College. Alpha Sigma Phi prides itself in service, campus and community involvement, brotherhood, and scholarship. "To Better the Man," is Alpha Sig's motto and is evident in the men that join Alpha Sigma Phi.

Alpha Sigma Phi's national philanthropy is Canine Companions for Independence. CCI brings new and exciting dimensions to the lives of people with disabilities by providing them with highly skilled assistance dogs.

Brothers are involved in many different aspects at Presbyterian College. Brothers are involved in varsity sports, service organizations, and honor societies. Alpha Sigma Phi also hosts several social events throughout the year. Among these events are Christmas Party, Hawaiiin, and their spring formal Black and White.

This year was a very successful year for Alpha Sigma Phi. Fall Rush welcomed 16 men into Alpha Sig. Not only was this year successful rush wise, Alpha Sig won numerous awards at the Greek Banquet, including receiving the highest award, The Presidents Cup.

The Beta Pi chapter of Presbyterian College is involved in a variety of events with our philanthropy, MDA, in the community, Adopt-A-Highway, and socially, Mountain Weekend, Christmas Party, and Old South. We have an active group of men who are involved on campus, dedicated to their major, and who can also enjoy their weekends.

Delta Sigma Theta

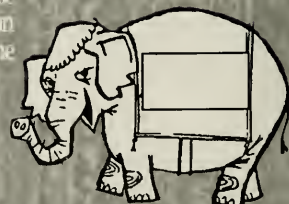

Twenty-two undergraduate women founded Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. on January 13, 1913 at Howard University. These young women were determined to use their collective strength to promote academic excellence and provide assistance to person in need. The first public act performed by the Delta founders involved their participation in the Women's Suffrage March in Washington, D.C., March 1913.

The Grand Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. has a membership of over 200,000 predominately African-American, college educated women. The sorority currently has 900 plus chapters located in the US, Japan, Germany, Bermuda, Seoul, Bahamas, Tokyo and the Virgin Islands.

Delta Sigma Theta is a private, no-profit organization whose purpose is to provide services and programs to promote human welfare. The major programs of the sorority are based upon the organization's Five-Point Program Thrust:

- *Economic Development
- *Educational Development
- *International Awareness and Involvement
- *Physical and Mental Health
- *Political Awareness and Involvement

Phi Beta Sigma

Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc. was founded in 1914 on the campus of Howard University in Washington, D.C. by the Hon. A. Langston Taylor, The Hon. Leonard F. Morse, and the Hon. Charles L. Brown. Members of Phi Beta Sigma uphold the ideals of Brotherhood, Scholarship, and service. These brothers live by the motto "Culture for Service, Service for Humanity." Phi Beta Sigma was founded on the Presbyterian College campus in June, 1981, but because of graduation over the years the chapter became inactive. In April, 2001, five young men completed the journey in to Sigmadom, and "Resurrected" the Nu Theta Chapter.

Sigma Sigma Sigma

In 1898, Sigma Sigma Sigma was set into motion at Longwood College in Farmville, Virginia. Since then, the sisterly love of Sigma Sigmas Sigma has not only spread to Presbyterian College but all across the U.S. and Europe.

Service to others, especially children, is the theme of every Sigma's life. Many of our members are involved in service activities both on and off campus, including Special Olympics, Girl Scouts, and SVS. Epsilon Pi also sponsors a local philanthropy, the Children's Attention Home located in Rock Hill, S.C. Besides donating needed supplies, such as toys, toiletries, clothing, the sisters of Epsilon Pi donate their time to the children seeking shelter there. Along with local involvement, every sister works to support our national philanthropy, the Robbie Page Memorial. RPM develops and supports play therapy for hospitalized children. Epsilon Pi raises money throughout the year to support RPM, as well as traveling to Chapel Hill once a semester to volunteer in the playroom.

The Epsilon Pi chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma is very proud of its strong and diverse sisterhood. The sisters make the sorority a high priority in their daily lives, a trait which is found in every Sigma sister across the world. They strive to maintain the values of faith, hope and love in all they do. Sigma sisters get together for sisterhood retreats, dinners, movies, games and any other reason they can find. They also attend many social events from a night out at the house to Jingle Ball to misers to Royal Pearl and others. They celebrate and share their sisterhood through many on campus organizations, as well, including SUB, Honor council, FCA, and many others.

Sigma Sigma Sigma is a tradition of sisterhood. The sisters of Epsilon Pi make that their highest priority. Even after graduation, our sisters live by our motto, "Faithful unto Death." Their bonds of friendship forged in the fires of love remain strong long after alumnae life has started.

Sigma Nu

Another great year flew by as the men of Sigma Nu entered the year 2002. Once again the brothers of Sigma Nu upheld its tight brotherhood and the ideal of truth, love and honor. The brothers put devotion into campus leadership, activities, service, and social experiences. A successful rush helped kick start the year by adding 13 fresh men. Along with the new members, the brothers excelled in many aspects of campus life. Receiving the alumni award, scholastic cup, Intramural award, and Ben Thomas receiving the outstanding Greek Scholar are just a few of many accomplishments.

Brothers were also involved with FCA, SVS, PC choir, ROTC, S.A.M., and professional clubs and fraternities. Community work was also very important to the men of Sigma Nu. They spent an afternoon with the Newberry Boys Farm, tutor students in Champs Program, painted the Girl Scout Hut, and Habitat for Humanity.

However, the brothers were not just all work and no fun. White Rose, 70's Party, White Star, Carolina Cup, band parties, mixers, and other events provided a well deserved and necessary outlet for the brothers of Sigma Nu.

Theta Chi

Theta Chi Fraternity Beta Psi Chapter

For 60 years, only the best men have run down the steps of Neville Hall to take part in the unique brotherhood of Theta Chi fraternity at Presbyterian College. Men seek to join the ranks of a socially involved fraternity that concurrently seeks to extend a helping hand to others in the community. The Brothers of Theta Chi Beta Psi Chapter are very involved with life on the college campus. The adopted philanthropy of the chapter is the American Red Cross, with brothers also involved in such service programs as Adopt-a-Highway, SVS, Special Olympics, and Eastside Outreach. Theta Chi brothers are also members in organizations of SGA, SUB, Stirlings, SKA, and BBB. The brothers of Theta Chi are also active athletically with members on the football, soccer, golf, tennis, and cross country teams.

However, the brothers of Theta Chi are certainly not all work and no play. Theta Chi boasts a strong social outlet for its members with parties like Dukes of Hazzard, Sword and Serpent Weekend, Carolina Cup, Party in Your Mouth, and Goodwill Formal. Theta Chi received the Social Programming Award at the Greek Awards Banquet for its invigorating contribution to social life on the Presbyterian College campus.

Finally, the best part of Theta Chi is the bond shared within the brotherhood. Men count their brothers as pillars they can lean on in times of need. Brothers share joy, sadness, triumph, and defeat, all of which serve to bring them closer together. Being a brother in Theta Chi is a truly extraordinary and rewarding experience with memories and friendships that last a lifetime.

The Zetas are proud of their diversity and involvement on campus. Sisters are involved in various campus organizations such as SVS, SUB, SGA, FCA, and numerous honor societies. In addition, many of our sisters are members of athletic teams. It is this involvement, along with excellent programming, service, and fundraising, that earned the Kappa Beta chapter numerous campus awards and awards from our International Office.

Zeta Tau Alpha's philanthropy is the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation. Each year the sisters travel to Greenville, SC and participate in the Race For the Cure to support their philanthropy, which personally touches so many each day.

This year the brothers of Beta Chapter of Pi Kappa Phi have been involved in numerous activities since we received fifteen new members back in October. Just a few of these are raising money for our national philanthropy, PUSH America, raising money for Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, attending brotherhood cookouts and dinners, and participating in weekly fraternity Bible studies. Socially, the year has been a great success with events such as Biker's Ball, Beach Party, Founder's Day, and Rose Ball. Internally, the structure and administration of the chapter has been enhanced and improved, with the by-laws rewritten and a Code of Conduct created.

The quality of PC's student newspaper, The Blue Stocking, increased by leaps and bounds thanks to the enthusiasm and support of its staff. Hank Coleman served as editor this year and was joined by a dedicated staff who was willing to put in long hours and loads of creativity. The paper was published 2-3 times a month, a major increase over the number of times it was published last year. The overall look of the paper was improved, and its content grew to include articles from AP sources and student articles such as movie reviews. The paper even increased in size - it is the size of a standard newspaper. The editorial section featured reactions of fellow students to articles in the paper and to events happening at PC. The Blue Stocking covered in depth stories about the new buildings at PC, sports, Opening Convocation, the new Honor Code, issues such as Three- to- a -Room and Dining in GDH. The continuing columns of the Editor "For the Love of PC," the Honor Council Chair, Julie Roach's column, and input from several different faculty members assured an interesting read. By adding interesting columns on the history of PC and by creating an interactive website, The Blue Stocking sought to maintain a preservation of the past and an optimistic gaze at the future of PC. Thanks for all of your hard work!

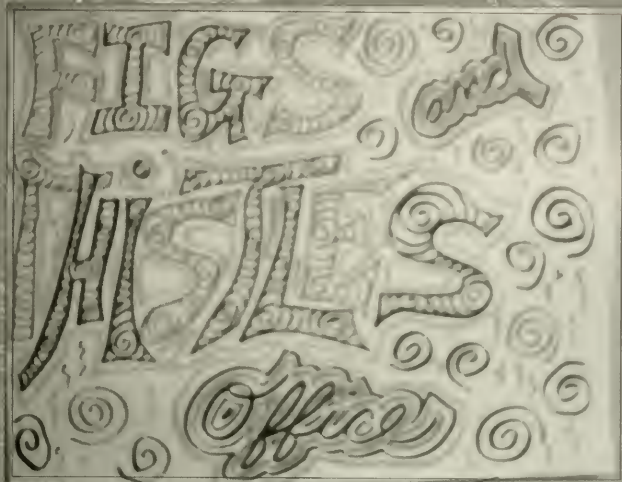

FIGS AND THISTLES

PC's literary magazine, Figs and Thistles, celebrates its 35th year in publication. The magazine was a tremendous success this year, thanks to the leadership of Editor Jill Walker and her fourteen-member staff. The staff this year included Audra Aliberti, Caleb Bryant, Paula Brock, Essie Buxton, Chap Day, Jennifer Dorniney, Paige Ellisor, Scott Moore, Pam Munkers, Gabriel Murray, Jay Owens, May Poole, Wylie Shugart, and Emmy Smith. Dr. Jim Skinner, Charles A. Dana Professor of English, is Figs and Thistles's faculty advisor.

The publication improved significantly this year, thanks to a new computer, a move to the Russell Publications House, and Chap Day created a website. Figs and Thistles hosted a Poetry Reading in the reopened Inklings coffee house, featuring poet Vera Gomez.

Congratulations to the staff for a wonderfully crafted magazine.

It is my hope as editor that this book has surprised and delighted you as you leafed through its pages. When I took on this enormous task, I had several goals in mind: to improve upon the quality of the book, make the book more representative of the student body, and reflect the beauty that I see on this campus. I also wanted to get faculty involved in the book, so I asked Dr. Skinner to write a poem on the theme of the book, Columns and Oak. His work astounded me, and it made me even more proud of this school. I hope, as a result of looking at this yearbook, you are more proud to be a Blue Horse as well.

God truly blessed PC's yearbook this year by placing a wonderful group of people in my life: the staff. The staff's experience and/or interest in desktop publishing brought them to work on the Pac Sac, and I hope they consider themselves craftsmen of the most unique and beautiful yearbook to come out of PC. I hope that you, the possessor of this book, will return to it frequently enough that it does not gather dust, but infrequently enough that its contents still surprise you.

I would like to thank so many people for their help throughout the year. From the beginning, Dr. George Ramsey has been encouraging and supportive as Chair of the Russell Committee. His patience and enthusiasm in dealing with all the student media this year are qualities all the student media leaders appreciated deeply. Dean Nixon helped the delivery man unload the many heavy boxes of 2001 yearbooks from the truck last August, and he also has continually asked how the book was coming along. He also interjected some new ideas. At his insistence, next year's book will be out in time for everyone to take home with them at the close of the spring semester. Once the books were here, Rachel Jernigan and Josef Henschen helped me to deliver the books to the many RA's around campus - not an easy feat, I can assure you. Steve Owens' photography graces the yearbook, as you have seen - how can I ever thank Steve Owens enough for his talent? Dr. Skinner, thank you again for the beautiful poem, which captured the essence of PC's fine qualities in such moving words. I learned at graduation of your plans to retire in December, so I wish you a very happy retirement. Jim Channell, our Walsworth representative, did more than his fair share of helping us get the job done. Jim is wonderful to work with, and we are very lucky to have him serving our school. Thank you to Melissa Marshall, mail room coordinator, for helping me in the mailing of the senior yearbooks. Thank you to all the campus organization presidents and members who replied to our emails and let us interrupt meetings for snapshots. And most of all I would like to thank the dedicated staff members who put up with my way of thinking, put in long hours in front of a Mac, and created such interesting pages. Without you all, the yearbook would have been months behind in deadlines, had very few interesting words to say, and looked very boring. Because of you all, the book is different on each page, features many different pictures, is alive with new features, and is far more interesting a piece on the whole. Brad, good luck to you next year. I am certain you will do a wonderful job!

Thank you for your ideas, your time, and your love of PC.

Radio PC

Are you interested in sharing your favorite music with others? Have you ever wanted to be a DJ? Have you wanted your own talk show? Join Radio PC under the leadership of student manager Stacy Plante and faculty advisor Dr. Eric Johnson.

Radio PC participates in many activities other than radio shows. DJs go out on "Radio Road Trips" to their favorite restaurants, and they participate in community service projects during the year.

This year, Radio PC broadcasts through cable channel 16 and live in Springs Campus Center, but next year, Radio PC will become WPCX 97.1 FM Clinton: What PC Xpects in Great Music. The station will have a 3-5 mile radius and will feature a variety of talk, music, and sport shows.

RADIO PC
IT'S YOUR MUSIC...

Radio PC spent the year making waves in the air and on campus by strengthening their image on campus. A witty staff t-shirt which said "We like to see you bob your heads" is a commentary on the effect the DJs saw on fellow students who were in Springs during a radio show. Radio PC was involved on Senate this year, and as part of the requirement, its members did a service project targeting campus smokers who throw their cigarette butts on the ground instead of in a trash can. By placing many posters around campus, the service project, appropriately named "Get Your Butts OFF the Ground!" not only served as a friendly reminder to be conscious of the environment, but also got Radio PC's name out on campus more so than before.

Graduation 2002

Truly a Tradition Breaking Occasion!

A beach ball made its back from Beach Week

All's well that ends well, right? So it was with FC class of 2002's graduation.

Everyone, including Dr. Griffith, was up all night, praying that the rain would cease and that FC's graduation would survive the tradition of being held on the West Plaza as it has for a number of years. The rain plan was for nonbelievers, we all thought.

Well, God had different plans for us this year, and though the ceremony took place in the gym, Dr. Griffith's assertion that having graduation in the gym created a spirit of intimacy. We were fortunate enough to greet each other outside after the ceremony.

Bagpipes still sang out our heritage; professors led the graduates. Cameras still flashed, happy graduates still wiped tears away, and families beamed with pride. Graduation, though it looked a bit different this year, was still a traditional FC graduation.

OAKS AND COLUMNS

For generations, all who pass
This testament of trees and grass
Discover here a place to grow:
A composition set to show
A symmetry of green and white,
A medium of shade and light,
An ordered ground, a poem in space
That promises another case.

Beneath these boughs we can partake
Of order that we did not make:
Patterns planted in the ground
In more sober ages found.
In trees and buildings we can trace
A past and future for this place.
Between the arching boughs are seen
The columns framed within the green:
Columns strong to stand behind
And fortify the seeking mind.

Of old came efforts to invoke
The holy powers of sacred oak.
The Greeks called oaks "The Mother Trees,"
And rustling of the sacred leaves
Revealed, in answer to a prayer,
That Zeus himself was present there
Above Dodona's columned fane,
To those who would the truth attain.

To father Abraham appeared
The Lord and angels, whom he feared,
But then he heard beneath his oak
Glad news that Sarah thought a joke.
From oak-leaves Romans wove a crown
For service rendered to the town,
In columned temples would reward
Her citizens with glad accord.

From columned buildings outward springs
Authority, enduring things
That moral principles impart
From just proportions, based on art.
Columns hold, beneath a frieze
Churches, juries, symphonies
That speak to us of virtue won
Of honor, hope, and justice done.

The columns stand for ordered state
Where no one dreams to hesitate
His own position to control
Or bear her part to keep the whole.
Good architecture breathes the hope
That unity is still the scope
Of arts and sciences that weave
Coherent patterns we receive.

For us in this fair place are made
Mosaic spots of light and shade.
Trees will shelter, columns reach;
Trees will bow, and columns teach;
Columns vault up to the light;
Oaks bow down to shade from sight.
One seeks earth; the other tries
To find a home among the skies.

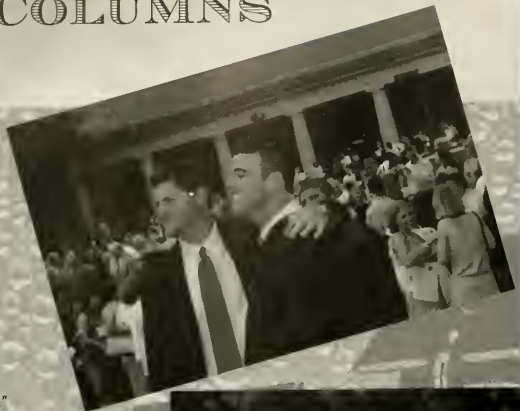

We, among them, seek to find
A sweet Concordia of the mind.
For both together teach in line
And equidistant all align.
But, like Arcadia's restive peace,
They both can promise no release
From tensions complex and involved
And problems panting to be solved.

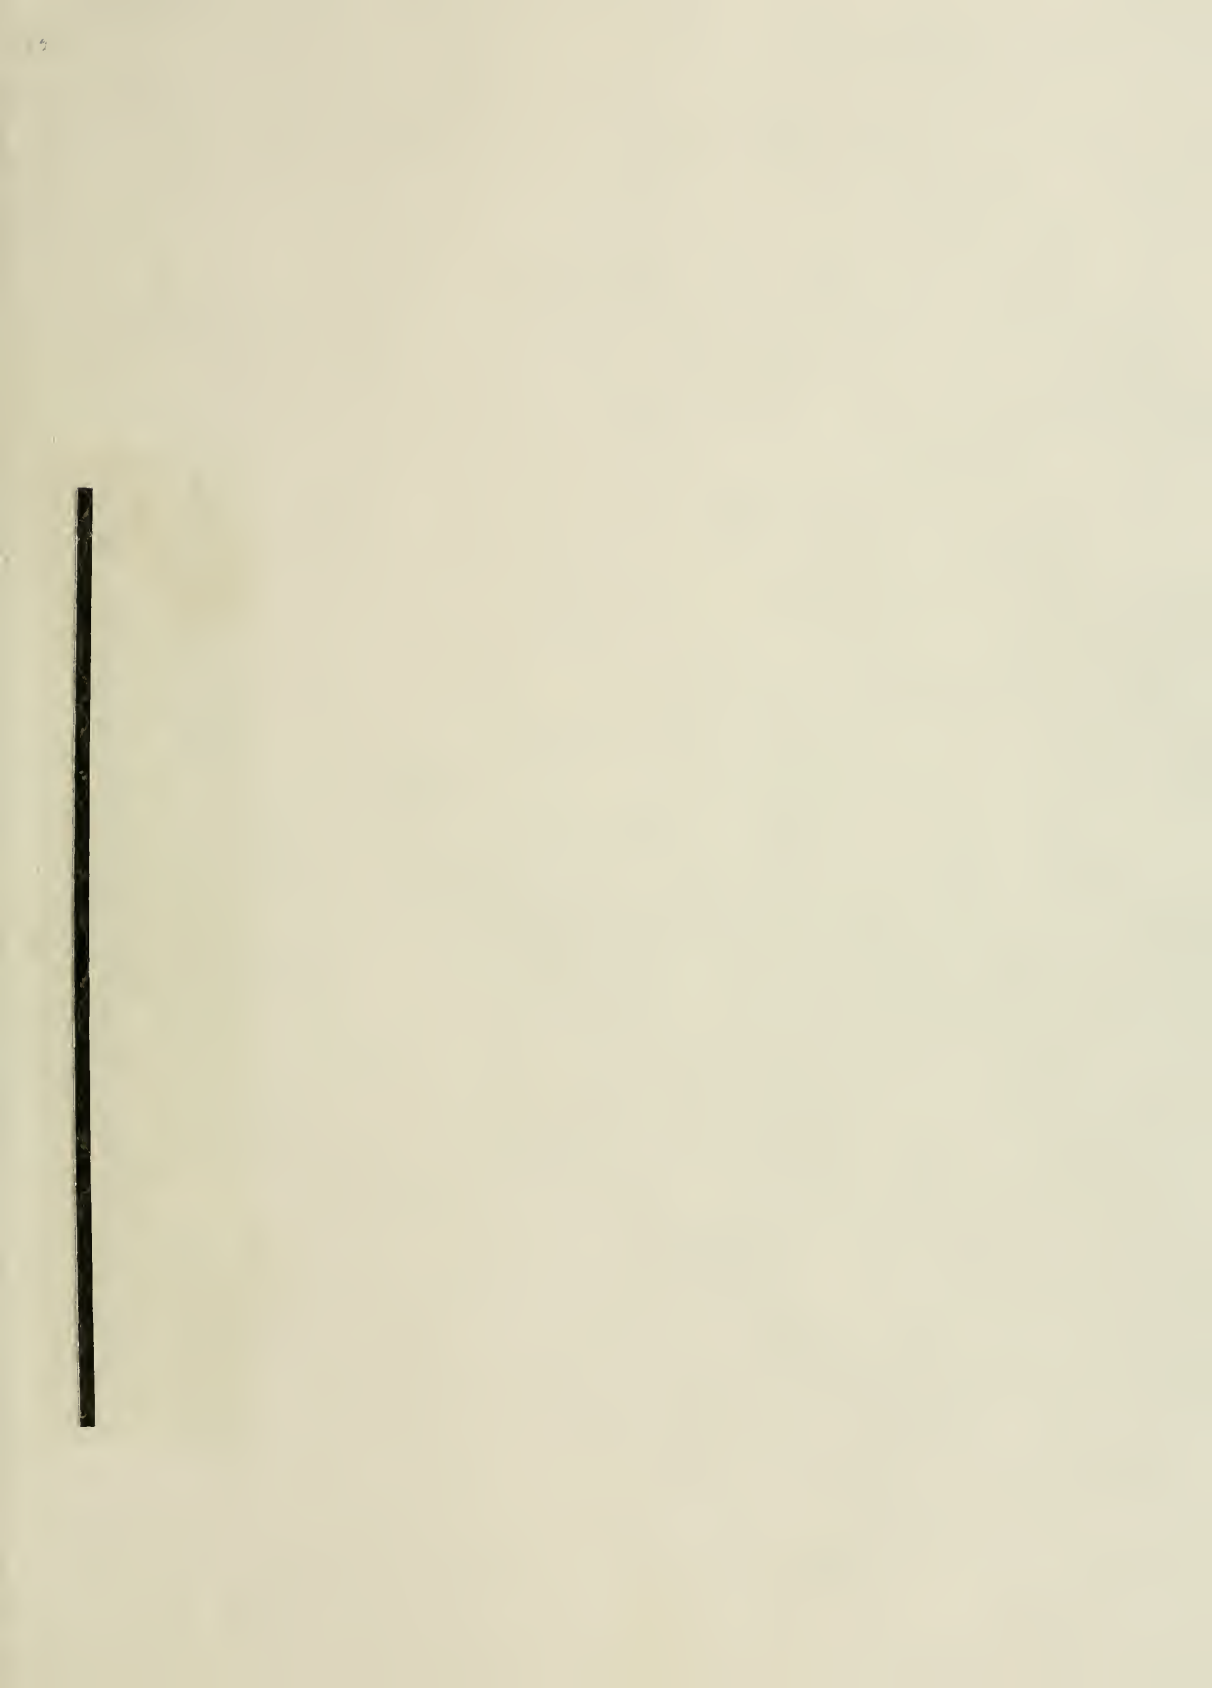

Both's efforts to escape the dust
Encounter horizontal thrust.
A never-ending tension shows
A lack of permanent repose.

But here all teachings can derive
From everything that's here alive.
For oaks and columns help to praise
The lessons learned in other ways.

This place itself can thus impart
The best of Nature and of Art.
Let rooted orders we have known
Be all our lives within us shown.
As long as oaks and columns stand,
May we who leave them grace the land.
